50th Anniversary Northfield Conferences Founded by Dwight L. Moody

Closing Services of Foreign Missionary Conference Thursday

A most impressive dedication service for nine young women who are going out to the foreign fields into missionary activities took place Thursday at the closing of the Foreign Missionary Conference at East Northfield, which has been attended by more than 900 people.

Preceding the dedication, Dr. P. H. J. Lerrigo, Home Secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, gave an address on Broadening Horizons.

As a part of the service, a large Christian flag, which had been suspended over the platform, was slowly lowered, and upon it were added nine stars, one for each of the women who are going out. Since the Northfield Conference was started, 155 service stars have been added, two of which are gold stars, representing the final sacrifice. Each of the young women was presented by one of her close friends.

Eva Marshall of Springfield, Vt., is going to Algeria under the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions. Ruth Dickie of Dennisport, Mass., is going to the Belgian Congo under the Baptist Board; Christie Almerman of New York City goes to Madras, India, under the United Uthar Board; Doris Wells of Philadelphia also goes to India under the Reformed church; Ruth Bliss of Boston is going to China in medical work under the American Board; Muriel Ramsay of New York City to China, Presbyterian Board; Beatrice Pond of Framingham, Mass., to Burma, the Baptist church; Jessie Cronk, New York City, to India, under the United Lutheran church; Jeannette Veldman of Grandville, Mich., to China, sent by the Reformed church.

A beautiful service of music accompanied the exercises. Announcement was made of the Conference of Religious Education, which will follow here on next Monday. That group will meet at East Northfield for the 27th year. A full program has been arranged, dealing with many phases of church activities. It will continue until July 30.

Conference of Religious Education Opens 27th Session

That no pains or expense have been spared in making the 27th annual Northfield Conference of Religious Education, which began last Monday, a success is evident by a glance at the comprehensive program of classes and the strong array of teachers. More than 500 church workers have come from the leading denominations in New England, New Jersey and New York, in order to acquire more efficient methods of procedure in regard to making the church an interesting and useful center in the community, and also to gain inspiration and enthusiasm to carry on the Kingdom of God here on earth.

Thirty-five classes each day, beginning after breakfast, which comes at 7.10, and continuing until 1 o'clock, give witness to the fact that this conference is emphasized in this Conference. It seems that no phase of church activity has been neglected. Such varied subjects as Psychology for Beginners and Primary Grades, the Geography of the Bible, illustrated, and a class in choral singing are included in the daily program. The smoothness and the care with which the classes, the services, and the recreation features are conducted reveal the ability and tireless zeal of the committee which has planned such an ideal program.

A course new to Northfield is the demonstration or laboratory class for beginners, primary and junior grades. In order to have expert teachers for this work, the committee secured the services of Miss Ethel M. Baader of New York City, author and teacher at the Gramercy school of New York; Miss Jeanette E. Perkins of New York, author of books for children and associate editor of the Congregational Society publication, and Miss Mary Sherburne Warren of North Pomfret, Vt., director of the children's division of the Vermont Council of Religious Education. A group of ten children serve as the demonstration class, while the observers sit nearby and later on enter the discussion. Miss Perkins, as well as Rev. and Mrs. Ivar Hellstrom of New York, who are on the faculty here, are members of the staff of the new Riverside Church of New York.

Dr. Albert A. Madsen of Gloucester, pastor of the Trinity church and formerly lecturer and teacher of Biblical Literature at Yale University and Western Reserve, is giving a course in the Old Testament and the Geography of the Bible, which is especially interesting to the adult group. Dr. Madsen was associated with Prof. Charles Foster Kent of Yale in the writing of the maps in several of his books. He made a trip last year to Palestine, during which he visited many of the excavations and took pictures which are being shown on the screen in Northfield this week.

Services of an inspirational character takes place at Sage chapel each morning and on Round Top, a knoll made sacred by the graves of Dwight L. Moody and his wife. The spirit of worship is beautifully suggested in the daily chapel exercises. The purpose of the program is to stimulate a sharing of the service by each member of the congregation rather than a passive reception of whatever is spoken or sung. All this is made easier by having a central and single theme for each day, all of which are linked up by the main topic of the week, which is prayer. The service is only a half hour long and comes after the first class in the morning, when everyone is fresh and eager for the day's activities.

The program is varied, containing responsive readings, a prayer, two hymns, Scripture reading, a solo and a short sermon. Rev. Dwight Bradley, pastor of the First Church of Newton, successor to Dr. Edward M. Noyes, for 35 years pastor of the church, is the chaplain who has charge of the service. Round Top meetings are held each evening at the sunset hour and are led by Rev. Mr. Bradley, Rev. Mr. Stanley Cummings of Bennington, Vt., and Dr. Edward Wilder, medical missionary under the American Board to Madras, India.

To balance the work of the day, an interesting program of sports, musicals, entertainments and trips are arranged. On Wednesday and Saturday evenings musical programs were given. These were under the direction of Miss Mabel P. Friswell of Needham, instructor of choral singing in Boston University; Mrs. Agnes R. Allen of Boston, organist and choir director at the Bethany Congregational church in Quincy, and Mrs. Alfrida H. Hoglund of Hartford, Conn. pianist and accompanist, who is director of music in the Swedish Lutheran church of Hartford.

On Friday evening, Rev. Roy L. Minich of Malden gave a talk on the folkways of the Pennsylvania Dutch. Mr. Minich was brought up in this region and is a descendant of these people. Hence his anecdotes and description had a local flavor that made them doubly interesting. Next Monday afternoon the entire Conference will make its annual journey to Mount Hermon, the Northfield School for Boys, located directly across the Connecticut River. This will be followed by a stunt night and a bonfire.

The Conference comes to a close on Wednesday, when the graduation exercises are held in Sage chapel.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan Thursday concluded his series of six addresses on The Missionary Manifesto to the Foreign Missionary Conference at East Northfield. He gave a summary of the points mentioned in the four Gospels, showing how, in each one, there was found the deposit, the debt, and the dynamic. To those who enjoyed Dr. Morgan's clear presentation of Bible study, it will be of importance to know that he will return for the General Conference in August.

In glancing back over the studies, the speaker said that Matthew emphasized, as did other evangelists, the royal authority of Jesus. For Mark, Jesus meant the renewing ministry; for Luke, it was His redeeming ability, and for John, Jesus stood for the revealing ministry. That constitutes the deposit. The four-fold debt was, according to Matthew, the proclamation of His authority. For Mark, it was the fellowship in service; for Luke, demonstration of his redeeming ability, and in John the proclamation of the revealing ministry in a moral reconstruction.

The dynamic consists in the gospel of Matthew of the presence of the King, in Mark of His fellowship, in Luke of the power of the Holy Spirit, and in John co-operation with Him. The secret of the power of Jesus was that He came to serve. So, too, does it apply to us. "Co-operating with Him means abiding with Him," Dr. Morgan said. "Abiding requires no effort, but a cessation of effort. Abiding in Christ implies a total surrender to Him, a cessation of effort. That is, by living with Him our lives will show forth out fellowship."

The Northfield Conference of Religious education commenced regular classes Tuesday for the 500 delegates who have come from all parts of New England, representing the leading Protestant denominations. Throughout the entire morning a full schedule of classes, 35 in number, was conducted, covering all the important branches of church work. The Conference will continue for ten days.

Rev. Dwight Bradley, pastor of the First Church of Newton, is giving a series of talks to the entire Conference at the daily service of worship in Sage chapel at 9 o'clock each morning. This meeting sets the tone of earnest purpose to the day. Miss Friswell of Needham, instructor of Choral Music at Boston University, is the soloist each day. Dr. Herbert W. Gates of Boston, the Dean of the Conference, is presiding officer.

The topic of the morning's service by Rev. Mr. Bradley was prayer. He said that prayer was functional, just as seeing or hearing. As such it should be used in order that results might accrue from it. "Only those who have actually experienced prayer can witness to its value," the speaker said. "Two aspects of the right attitude in prayer and faith and simplicity. We should pray with a certainty of the fulfillment of God's will, and we should approach God as we go to our father, a loving parent. It is as such that Jesus taught his disciples to pray. Through prayer life's greatest achievement is gained. Untold power and strength result."

Rev. A. D. Parker, pastor of the Union Methodist Episcopal Church of Fall River is conducting a course on the Message and Program of the Christian Religion. In pointing out what religion was to Jesus, he said that it meant a correction of life in anything that prevents the assurance of God as Father, a worthy attitude toward men, and a devotion to the will of God and the good of men.

Conference Sends Telegrams to President Hoover and Senator Borah

More than 900 women from New England and the Middle Atlantic The dynamic consists in the gospel, denominations, meeting at East Northfield in the Foreign Missionary Conference, voted today at its closing session to send a telegram to President Hoover expressing "their gratitude for courageous and high-principled leadership in our country's international affairs." "We pledge you our support," the telegram went on, "in your position and with you confidently await early ratification by the Senate of the London naval treaty."

To Senator Borah, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and to Senators Gillette and Walsh of Massachusetts telegrams were also sent earnestly appealing and urging unconditional ratification of the London naval treaty, adding, "we enthusiastically support President Hoover in his expressed desires."

The Conference of Religious Education at East Northfield is filled each day with work inspiration and recreation. Wednesday the Conference picture and also that of the leaders were taken. In the evening a musical program was given by Miss Mabel Parkes Friswell of Needham, soprano; Mrs. Alfrida H. Hoglund of Hartford, pianist, and Mrs. Agnes R. Allen of Boston, organist. Miss Friswell sang several Negro Spirituals and Folk Songs. Works from both the older and modern composers made up the program of Mrs. Hoglund and Mrs. Allen.

The service of worship in Sage chapel contained the theme of the strength and power resulting from prayer. Each day some phase of prayer is suggested by the chaplain, Rev. Dwight Bradley, pastor of the First Church of Newton, and the entire service is planned to emphasize that subject. The purpose of the program is to stimulate a sharing of the service by each member of the congregation rather than a passive reception of whatever is spoken or sung.

That the spirit is stronger than the body, and that untold power is accessible to the spirit through prayer, Rev. Mr. Bradley asserted. "The meek shall inherit the earth only because of some inner strength. How could D. L. Moody, the founder of these schools accomplish what he did without the resources of prayer that he availed himself of? This same power from God can be ours if we have the will and the daring to use it. The tremendous inward strength of Gandhi is derived, as he admits, from prayer. With such wealth lying ready to be tapped, let us resolve at once to use it in order that we might realize the fullest expression of ourselves as God meant us to be."

Conference Employees Picnic at Lake Spofford

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock a jolly party made up of the employees of the Conferences, motored to Ware's Grove for an outing. The bath houses and boats had been rented for the afternoon and provided an opportunity for all to enjoy the water sports on the most attractive of the nearby lakes. When supper time came, franks and bacon were roasted over the fire and added zest to the other refreshments provided. The party returned about 9 in the evening and all voted the party a grand success.

The Big Parade

From a mere suggestion of several weeks ago, the Northfield Tercentenary parade has developed into such proportions that it is approximately one mile in length and is made up of floats, vehicles and those who march. Such a parade as this might well be envied by larger towns and cities. The interest and enthusiasm which is being shown is far beyond the expectations which were entertained by the most optimistic, and it proves beyond all doubt that Northfield is among those towns and cities which have a permanent interest in historical events.

To go into detail regarding the parade would be almost an endless task, yet several facts should be mentioned so that one may get a glimpse of the interest being shown. There are upwards of 300 people participating, and these from practically every organization in town. Floats representing early industries, floats representing organizations and their objectives, and still other floats of various descriptions. Added to this are the different war periods. Then, again, the old vehicles—and such vehicles!

But the one thing that stirs and thrills me most is the "horseless" or steam carriage. It should be of unusual interest to Northfield citizens to know that a Northfield young man was the first to attempt to build an automobile. This was 50 years ago this coming August. The device was of such design and showed such capabilities that Washington granted George Long of Northfield a patent on it in 1882. This same machine, which is a vision of the present-day automobile, will be in the parade under its own power. As far as is known, there is nothing like it anywhere, so Northfield can be justly proud that she helped materially in bringing about the automobile. Although quite an old gentleman, Mr. Long is still living in Boston and he writes us, through his daughter, that "its about time the old bus had an airing."

Regarding the route and distance of the parade, there has been some question owing to probable weather conditions, but if severe heat should prevail, I feel sure that suitable transportation can be provided for emergencies. To me, it would seem a pity not to traverse the full length of Main street so that all residents who may not be able to review the parade otherwise may do so from their own doorstep.

Should my suggestion be practical, I would recommend that we assemble at Maple street, as planned, continue up Main street to Pine, or possibly Moody street, then down Highland avenue to the Castle grounds.

PHILIP PORTER.

Haven H. Spencer Post Send Delegate to State Convention

Warren Whitman has gone as representative of the Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, to the Legion Convention now in session in Williamstown. There are two important amendments which will bring out much discussion. One is signed by State Commander John P. O'Connell of Amherst and reads:

"There shall be appointed by the department commander, subject to confirmation by the department executive committee, an adjutant, whose duties shall comprise the following:

"The conduct of correspondence and the keeping of files and records of the department, including lists of names and addresses of all posts and their officers and members, the furnishing to all department officers such information as they may from time to time request in order to facilitate the performance of their duties and the business of the department. The adjutant shall be the secretary of the department executive committee. He shall be the executive officer of the commander and perform such duties as the commander may prescribe, not in conflict with the duties of other officers."

That amendment, if adopted, shall be effective following the State convention of 1931, unless otherwise voted. The Hampden County Council submitted an amendment on June 22 to the effect for "a department adjutant who shall be elected for a period of two years, and who shall be secretary of the department executive committee."

Either an appointed adjutant or one elected for a period of two years, would be a wholly new departure in the construction of the official State department family of the Legion, which had its inception in Massachusetts 11 years ago.

Of the three avowed candidates for the office of State Commander, Richard F. Paul of Canton is a past vice-commander, having served for three consecutive terms; Basil B. Mulligan of Attleboro is at present a vice commander, having been in that office more than any of the other four now there, and Thomas F. Quinn of Natick is a past judge-advocate.

Tercentenary News

The Northfield Schools and the Hotel plan to observe Friday of next week, Aug. 1, as a holiday. Why not make it unanimous throughout the town? Nobody will want to miss the biggest day that Northfield has since the last time.

Olde Folkes Concerte choir rehearsal at the Town hall tomorrow (Saturday) evening at 8 o'clock. Plans will be made for a final rehearsal under Arthur Phillips at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening, July 30, at 6.30, for half an hour or so.

A group of young people have been working hard on an exhibition dance to be given during the Oldtime Costume Ball at the Town hall Wednesday evening, July 30.

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot of the Arlington Street church, Boston, will speak on the subject, "What the Founders of Massachusetts Brought to America," at the Service of Thanksgiving scheduled for Friday evening, Aug. 1, in the Auditorium. The full choir, under the leadership of Arthur Phillips, will be on the platform in costume at this gathering and will sing a couple of pieces.

The list of houses to be opened to the public next Wednesday includes several not opened two years ago on a similar occasion. Altogether, they reveal a wealth of antique treasures that are a big asset to the town.

Everybody who has rented or has a home-made costume, or an oldtime dress, is urged by Philip Porter to join in the Historical parade on Friday, Aug. 1, of which he is director. There will be groups of pilgrims, Puritans, Revolutionary and 19th century folks illustrating those various periods.

The Tercentenary Exhibit at Alexander Hall

The exhibit of Colonial handiwork at Alexander hall promises to be of great interest and quite extensive. A committee selected from all parts of the town is at work to secure as loans the treasured handiwork of our forefathers for exhibit on Wednesday, July 30, at the hall. Will everyone who has such valuable antiques as embroideries, crewel work, patchwork quilts, hand-woven quilts or linens, hooked or braided rugs, kindly notify the nearest committee member of the articles to be exhibited.

The following are serving in the various localities—Main street: Mrs. N. P. Wood, Mrs. Orce, Mrs. E. F. Howard; The Farms: Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Parker; West Northfield: Mrs. Arthur Bolton; East Northfield: Miss Marian Holton, Miss Fanny Stockbridge, Miss Muriel Hendrick, Miss Grace Doolittle.

Jeffery—Cram

The following item was taken from the Hollywood, Cal. News of July 11: The wedding of Miss Elinore M. Cram, 744 South Catalina street, California, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Cram of Colrain, Mass., and Dr. Eugene F. Jeffery of the Ambassador Hotel, was observed at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather. Harley G. Preston, chaplain of the Glendale post of the American Legion, officiated.

The bride's gown was fashioned of ivory satin, with which she wore a long tulle veil and carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Helen Goss was matron of honor in fuchsia net with briarcliff roses, and the Misses Patricia and Lucille Jeffery, in coral and pink organdie, were bridesmaids. They carried flame-colored sweet peas. James Jeffery served his uncle as best man. Ushers were Dr. H. A. McGillis and Louis A. Schwanke. The wedding reception was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Goss, 324 Columbia avenue.

Miss Jeffery was graduated from the Northfield Seminary and the ale School of Training for Nurses, New Haven.

Miss Pigott Lost on Mountain

Miss Pigott had a most trying experience last Monday which caused much alarm among her friends. She started early in the day to go berrying in Perry's pasture and left her watch with Mrs. Ober, to be called for on the way home. When she had not returned for it by six o'clock in the evening Mrs. Ober sent out the alarm, and searching parties hunted until she was found about 2.30 in the morning by Myron Durnell and Rod-erick Parker. She had some refreshments with her and had not suffered from exposure. She seemed quite unconcerned about her trying experience.

Lake Pleasant

Splendid attendance marks the popularity of the Saturday evening dances in the Temple, with the augmented Goodnow's Singing Orchestra to furnish the music. Because of the large number of dancers, the spectators' tickets have been abolished to give more room for those who enjoy both the dancing and music.

The Lake Pleasant Hotel, which had been leased to Mr. and Mrs. Burton T. Gaskill and opened most auspiciously under their management, has been taken over by the Camp Meeting Association and is being conducted under its direct management, with Mrs. Helen R. Turney as chairman of the committee. The special Sunday dinners which are being served for $1.00 are becoming as popular as they were last season and the reservations already booked at the hotel portend a good season.

Cottages are renting well and rooms at them and at the hotel are in demand for the August camp meeting, which opens Sunday, Aug. 3, with Rev. F. A. Wiggins as the lecturer and psychic for the three services of the day.

The meetings of the National Spiritual Alliance, which have been and are being held during this month, are drawing good audiences, and the work of George B. Cutter on Sunday, July 6, and Sunday, July 13, as well as during the week between, was especially good.

Rev. and Mrs. Albert P. Blinn returned from the Ocean Grove camp meeting at Harwichport and reported a most successful ten days' camp. Mrs. Isabel C. Bradley, the noted ballad medium, who is to be here in August, drew audiences that filled the Ocean Grove Temple to capacity at each service.

Earl Guilford is the uniformed officer in attendance at the dances, and C. Murray Stoddard has been assisting in regulating the night dance traffic.

Northfield Defeats St. Mary's

The Northfield A. A. defeated St. Mary's A. A. of Turners Falls, 11 to 3, last Wednesday night in seven innings, the game being called on account of darkness. Cook's home run in the sixth was a feature of the game.

To Curb Spread of the Japanese Beetle

Vigorous steps to curb the spread of the Japanese beetle and to ascertain any new areas in which it has made its appearance are being taken by the Division of Plant Pest Control, State Department of Agriculture. The only badly infested area is at Springfield, but the dreaded beetle made its appearance in Boston last year and there is an infestation at Providence as well as at several places in Connecticut. The control measures are being taken in Springfield and Boston, and efforts are being made to determine the spread from these areas so that prompt measures can be taken to control further spread so far as possible.

In the Boston area traps have been placed in the Public Gardens, Commonwealth Pier and other places where the beetles have already made their appearance, also in outlying parkways. These traps are baited with a substance attractive to the beetles, and if the beetles are present in any numbers, some of them are sure to get into the traps. The number of beetles which are caught in any one trap is indicative of the infestation in that area. Absence of any beetles in the traps is not conclusive proof that none are present in that section, but it is pretty good evidence that they are not present in any considerable numbers.

Where beetles are found, prompt measures are taken to curb their spread. The most effective method is poisoning the ground with a solution of arsenate of lead. The grubs of the beetle feed on roots of grasses, and if there is arsenate of lead in the soil, they are killed. The application of the poisoning this summer will kill most of the grubs which might hatch out in the fall. In Springfield the beetles were so numerous two years ago that more than 5,000 were trapped in one small park in the heart of the city. In the same area last year, after control measures were established, only about 1,000 were trapped. This was taken as an indication of the value of the poison method. The number of beetles which are caught in the traps in this park this year may be further proof of the possibility of this form of control.

The beetles were so prevalent in Springfield that the whole of Hampden County was placed under quarantine by the federal authorities last year. The quarantine forbids carrying any soil out of the county, as it might contain larvae of the Japanese beetles and thus infest a new region. The quarantine also forbids the transportation of certain plants on which the beetle commonly feeds.

Experience has shown that the chief danger from the ravages of the Japanese beetle is on parks and private estates. On farms where fruit trees and crops are well sprayed, the beetle cannot get a foothold and are seldom sources of any considerable loss. Uncared for orchards and farm crops are, however, a source of danger of spreading the beetles if they once get a foothold. In view of the danger to parks and in yards and gardens, every effort is being made to hold the infestation within the smallest possible limits.

Governor's Safety Committee

Defective equipment is to blame for at least 15 per cent of the fatal automobile accidents each year in Massachusetts, and also for more than 8 per cent of the non-fatal accidents, according to figures issued by the Governor's committee on street and highway safety. A compulsory inspection of equipment on every car in this State during August and September will be one of the principal of the "Save-A-Life" campaign to be carried on simultaneously by the six New England States in the largest mass movement of the kind ever attempted in this country.

A special study of 45 fatal cases in the city of Boston over a period of three months revealed that defective equipment was the principal or contributing factor in 42 per cent of these accidents. This tabulation did not count those instances where poor equipment was suspected to have figured prominently in the crash but the cause listed as questionable. Inadequate brakes were found to be the chief item at fault, with inadequate lights ranking next. Defective equipment, as might be supposed, was generally found to be a contributing factor rather than a principal cause, as there are few cases in which poor judgment of the driver, with too much confidence in his machine, did not figure.

An increase in speed of 50 per cent which is not at all uncommon with the change in driving practices in recent years, means an increase of 125 per cent in an automobile's energy, the Governor's committee points out, stressing the importance of perfect equipment. The destructive power of a car, therefore, increases far faster than its speed and although four-wheel brakes, according to the committee, have done much to restore the balance by adding increased control to increase speed, nevertheless a car once out of control is likely to do twice the damage it would have done if driven at a speed customary several years ago.

A compulsory inspection such as is about to be undertaken in Massachusetts was one of the principal recommendations of the committee on maintenance of motor vehicles at the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety at Washington last Spring, where it was pointed out that the actual maintenance of automobiles by their owners had not kept pace with the mechanical improvements effected recently by manufacturers. A nation-wide survey made by this committee showed that not only is defective equipment responsible for 15 per cent of the fatal accidents, but that a much larger percentage of cars on the road are operating with distinctly defective equipment, although they may have been lucky enough to escape serious crashes.

This survey showed that in those cases involving defective equipment, 24.5 to 28 per cent of the cars were found to have defective brakes, 13.3 to 25 per cent defective lights, and up to 7 per cent each, defective steering gear, horns, mirrors and windshield wipers.

A similar trend was experienced in Massachusetts in the voluntary inspection conducted in 1928. Of the owners who submitted their cars for inspection, 21.5 per cent found that their brakes needed tightening or equalizing, while 21 per cent found that their lights needed adjusting. In four per cent of the cases the lights needed replacing, an especially hazardous condition, and one which the Governor's committee points out can be easily forestalled if a driver always carries a spare bulb in his car.

Local People to Speak at Farm and Home Week

Of the 60 or more speakers on the Farm and Home Week program, which is to be held July 29 to Aug. 4, at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, 16 are well-known people of the State, other speakers being from college and other institutions.

There are 12 programs scheduled during the four days. The home-making program has five local speakers; these being Mrs. O. H. Smilie, Boston; C. J. Norton, Northampton; Mrs. Lanche Hyde, Waltham; Mrs. R. O. Harper, Great Barrington, and Margaret Quayle, Worcester. Fruit growers have three local men on their program; these being, H. P. Gilmore, Westboro; John Chandler, Sterling, and Marcus Gray, Boston. The poultry program also has three local speakers, A. D. Holmes, Stoneham; L. A. Beaven, Massachusetts Department of Agriculture; and H. N. Caldwell, Littleton. The home flower program will have two local speakers, C. J. Norton, Northampton, and C. H. Smith, Deerfield.

These cash crops, sheep, agricultural engineering and bee-keeping programs will each have one local speaker. They are, in order, B. L. Hartwell, Auburndale; J. C. Cort, Massachusetts Department of Agriculture; George Story, County Agricultural Agent, Worcester, and J. H. Merrill, Raynham. Lawn day, food preservation, dairy, and tobacco and onions are the other programs scheduled for Farm and Home Week.

General information and registrations may be secured by writing to the Extension Service at Amherst.

Announcement was made by J. H. Graham, head of the poultry Department of the Massachusetts Agricultural College that F. A. Hays, research professor of poultry husbandry, has been awarded a prize of $100 for the most outstanding contribution to the poultry industry and science during the past year. This award, according to Professor Graham, was made public at a recent meeting of the Poultry Science Association held at McDonald College, St. Annes, Quebec.

This award is made each year by the association, which is composed of poultry instructors and investigators in the United States and Canada, and is made on the basis of specific publications. The award is made by heads of the poultry departments at the colleges, the award this year being made for Dr. Hays' work on inbreeding in relation to egg production, which was published in Bulletin No. 258 by the Massachusetts Experiment Station.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW?

1. Where do the "Sage Hens" come from?

6. Who succeeded Moses and led the Israelites over the Jordan and into the Promised Land?
7. What is the monetary unit of Belgium?
8. What is it worth?
9. What European peninsula looks like a boot?
10. What is an overt act?
11. Did the Indians have ponies before America was discovered by the white men?

This is a great world. If you kill a man, you can get out of jail on $20,000 bond, but if you pet a woman who wants to be petted and get caught at it, it means $100,000 to get out of jail.

Carol has gone back to his kingdom, but we would not give much for it. In the course of time he will be run out of the country.

A Dramatic Industry

Gas provides a dramatic chapter in the history of American industry. A little more than 100 years ago it came into use for street lighting. The wisecracks of the time, when they did not consider it a menace, thought it a joke. Yet the industry developed and homes were commonly lighted by gas. Then electricity came into being and it was thought gas was doomed. It was soon found, however, that gas could do certain manufacturing operations better than any other fuel. As a result it now has 21,000 industrial uses. The latest developments of the gas industry have been the production of home-heating and refrigerating units. These have found favor in hundreds of thousands of modern homes and offer a new field for gas progress.

The Uncertainty Is Over

There is this to be said for the new tariff bill: it has ended the uncertainty which was a real factor in the business depression. The arguing, log-rolling and vote-bartering are over and American business can go back to work knowing exactly what tariff duties are to be, and to what degree they will affect production and competition in the domestic and foreign markets.

New Ford Cars in State Increase Over Last Year

Registration of the new Ford passenger cars in Massachusetts up to June 1 of this year showed an increase of 24.5 per cent over the number registered in the corresponding period of last year, according to the Ford Motor Company. This is exclusive of trucks and commercial cars. There were 21,720 new Ford passenger cars registered in the first five months of this year, compared with 17,452 in the first five months of 1929. Of the total number of cars of all makes registered, 39.1 per cent were Fords.

The United States of Europe does not seem to be getting along very fast. Exaggerated ideas of patriotism is the main trouble.

Tariff walls are going higher and all the world complaining of hard times. Tear down tariff walls everywhere and business would thrive as never before.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

WHEN hats are being rejuvenated keep in mind that the ribbons can be given a fresh appearance by dipping them in a quart of water in which three table spoons of sugar have been thoroughly dissolved.

Vinegar and salt make a fine polish for brass and copper. Put salt on a soft cloth that has been dampened with vinegar and rub the object to be polished. The same combination is one of the best cleaners for the inside of flower vases that have been stained.

A few drops of lime juice give a delightful new flavor to honeydew melon.

YOUTHFUL COTTONS

Paris has an inimitable way of taking youthful details and treating them in a sophisticated manner, so that the beloved "youthful" frock which forms the subject of so many cables is rarely as ingenuous as it appears at first glance.

The short-sleeved frock at the left, for instance, makes a decidedly clever and subtle use of tabs on its tuck-in blouse, and their rather square design is repeated in the skirt seaming, which terminates in pleats. A frilly three-quarter collar and a square neck are youthful notes on the extremely smart wrap-around frock at the right, which also features pleats.

A Dinner in 30 Minutes
For Hurried Housewives

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company.

FIVE o'clock and the party is over! But it is much later than you thought—and you must be home and have dinner ready in less than an hour!

Every woman has this experience occasionally; and this is one of the times when a well-stocked emergency shelf will prove a genuine life-saver.

The quick-time meal, however, need not come entirely from the delicatessen store, nor need it be one for which you must apologize. With careful planning, it is possible to prepare a well-balanced, attractive meal in thirty minutes—a meal to which you even could invite guests with confidence.

The dinner planned below is unusually excellent, and will show how much may be accomplished in a very little while. If you are an experienced cook, you may be able to prepare this meal in even less than the allotted time, though it may mean a bit of hurrying if you are just a beginner.

Next time you come home late, try this meal on the family:

Cream of Pea Soup
Crisp Crackers
Meat Patties with Bacon
Tomato and Cucumber Salad
Pure Apple Butter Hot Biscuits
Fig Pudding with Ice Cream

1. Light oven, and put a pan of water and a skillet on to heat.
2. Prepare meat patties, and place in the skillet to sear outside. Cover and place in oven to bake for twenty minutes. (Recipe given below).
3. Place a can of Cream of Pea Soup and a can of Fig Pudding in the kettle of water to heat. Heating prepared foods in the cans not - only preserves their full flavor, but eliminates danger of scorching, and saves washing extra pans.

4. Mix and cut the biscuits. Biscuits bake in twelve minutes, and they take only a few minutes to mix. The oven must be hot for the meat anyhow, so why not enjoy the luxury of hot biscuits? They do so much toward dressing up a meal.
5. Put the crackers in a pan on top of the oven to crisp.
6. Set the table, putting on bread and butter, and dishes of Pure Apple Butter and Fresh Cucumber Pickles.
7. Prepare salad and place on table. (Recipe given below).
8. Place biscuits in oven.
9. Fill water glasses, and uncover the meat.
10. Serve the soup and announce dinner! The biscuits and meat can be taken from the oven and served after the soup course.

Meat Patties with Bacon:—Use equal quantities of ground beef and pork. Season the meat with salt, pepper and a bit of onion juice. Form into patties and wrap a slice of bacon around each, securing it with a toothpick. Brown in a skillet, and then add 1 tablespoon Tomato Ketchup and ¼ cup water. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Uncover during the last few minutes of baking to allow the bacon to crisp. Serve with Tomato Ketchup.

Tomato and Cucumber Salad:—Scald the tomatoes and remove skins, or leave the skins on if you prefer. Slice a little more than half way through each tomato, from the top, making five or six crevices into which slices of cucumber or hard cooked egg may be inserted. If cucumbers are used, an unusual effect may be obtained by scoring the sliced cucumber lengthwise with the tines of a silver fork, to give each a scalloped edge. Place the tomatoes on crisp lettuce and garnish with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing or Salad Cream, which is a slightly tart, spicy dressing, particularly good with fresh vegetable salads.

The boy friend bemoans the fact that he is never understood. He says it's because his dad was a train caller and his mother a telephone operator.

Father: "There's nothing worse than being old and bent."
Roebar: "Yes, there is, to be young and broke."

Win a Prize

Which would you rather see? Admiral Byrd riding up Fifth Avenue behind a fifty-piece band, or Will Rogers in his night-shirt behind an ice wagon.

Let your thesis be in simple words of one column width on brown wrapping paper. The judges will be picked from around the Information Booth at Grand Central Station. The prizes, donated by the Gandhi Salt Company, consist of a new Sears, Roebuck catalog or one slightly soiled rubber reducing girdle.

Your reporter interviewed Moe Baggs, one of the five men who claim to know what Einstein is talking about. Mr.
Baggs claims that while space is unlimited all that we can observe of it is pretty well cluttered up with heavyweight contenders and Congressmen. He believes that light travels faster than time and that if we could lay both of them end to end it would prove Antony right when he said to Cleopatra, "I come not as a speaker of words, but a deer of death." Mr. Baggs was educated to be a trap drummer in a night club. He took up relativity after winning the National Mausoleum medal for "distinguished contribution to the science of embalming."
He will be 46 in October, wears orchid pejamas and carries an old vaccination scar on his right arm.

Dear Sir: I shall be in New York for two days, could you suggest a good snappy show?

Just a Drummer.

Ans.: We usually take cod liver oil or iodine as a spring tonic but this year we saw Fifty Million Frenchmen. Wear scatterproof glasses if your eyes are weak.
Those girls are very dynamic, if you know what I mean?

We have been turning our dial for two weeks in the hope of hearing one of the Metropolitan stars trilling that great aria, "Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bowwow."

Mrs. Percival Clotworthy and Miss Lucille Bagnall at the spring social of the Turquoise Club. They won the handsomer prize.

Dear Mrs. Baggs: The Morning Glory Club meets at my home this week and I am at a loss for unusual bridge prizes, would you suggest some?

Ans.: One pound of slightly rancid butter would make an unusual prize, or a leather bound copy of "Bad Habits and How to Break Them."

Basil Hambone in the Third Act of "The Lost Collarbutton" playing at the Wistaria. This is the great scene in which the noted actor rises to heights of emotion heretofore unknown outside of golf and rabies. He curses a great curse on the button as the curtain falls amidst an uproar of applause.

The tongs are at it again. The Hip Sings, or Mongolian Elks, charge that the On Leongs, widely known as the Celestial Woodmen of the World, sing through their noises, as a consequence no washing has been put out for several weeks, both parties having declared a religious holiday so they can tag each other with hatchets and bird shot. Chinatown buses equipped with shatterproof glass are doing a good business hauling sightseers to the front line trenches.

Prohibition Administrator Campbell of New York is after the malt and hop boys. He threatens to confiscate bottles, corks, barrels and labels. But the big keg and barrel men claim this would lower the standard of living and petrify the young home-brew industry but when our stomachs have begun to tolerate it, Besides it penalizes the man who wants a cork for legitimate purposes.

This drawing is from the cover page of Senator Snoot's recent volume, "How the U. S. Government Works." It illustrates the breakdown of our moral system and shows
the evolution of the modern chain grocery.

Iceland Wants Gun to

Summer Vegetable Dishes

By JOSEPH BOGGIA, Chef
The Plaza Hotel, New York City

NOW, in the glorious season when fresh vegetables are abundant and inexpensive, it clearly behooves the conscientious housewife to make the most of her opportunities. Not only because they are among the most delicious of nature's many gifts, but because they contain so many of the elements vital to health, fresh vegetables should form an important part of every family's summer menu.

Chef Boggia

Serve them in the standard ways, of course, but after a while even the tastiest vegetable is likely to lose some of its appeal unless variation is introduced into the method of preparation. Watch for new recipes, and with this watchfulness combine a wise use of the three fundamental vegetable seasonings—pepper, salt and sugar. The last, without being noticeable in the finished dish, restores the garden sweetness the vegetable begins to lose as soon as it is picked. The woman who understands the use of these seasoners possesses the most important secret of vegetable cookery.

Carrots and Peas with Mint—Boil together for five minutes two cups of corn freshly cut from the cob. Add salt to taste, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon sugar, and two tablespoons butter. Line a shallow dish with thin slices of hot, buttered toast. Pour in the mixture. Lay strips of crisply cooked bacon over the top and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Corn Louisienne—Simmer for five minutes in one and a half cups whole milk, two cups of corn freshly cut from the cob. Add salt to taste, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon sugar, and two tablespoons butter. Line a shallow dish with thin slices of hot, buttered toast. Pour in the mixture. Lay strips of crisply cooked bacon over the top and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Peas and Onions—Cook separately, until tender, one and a half cups shelled peas and one-half cup little onions. Heat four tablespoons thick cream in a saucepan. Add the peas and onions. Shake lightly until well covered with the cream and very hot. Add one-fourth teaspoon sugar. Mix thoroughly and serve.

Problem of Feeding Thousands of Youths

One of the most important functions which falls upon the shoulders of the regular personnel at Fort Adams during the Citizens' Military Training Camp period is that of feeding the thousands of youths who come here from all parts of New England to spend the month of July as citizen soldiers. Captain A. D. Johnson of the 13th Infantry is again C. M. T. C. mess officer and he has his specially selected organization functioning even more smoothly than he had it working last summer. The task of feeding these young men is one which requires not merely experience in buying food and having it cooked and served, but also considerable knowledge of human nature, for these boys are accustomed to home cooking, and when they are in camp they still expect to have many particular gastronomic desires satisfied. Captain Johnson has shown a capacity for anticipating such wishes, with the result that his mess is an excellent one that keeps the trainees in first-rate condition and surprises the visitors who come to camp.

The mess hall overlooking the waters of Narragansett Bay was first used last year and is a source of wonder to the parents and friends of the students who come here. It is always open for inspection and the public is cordially invited to come and see the manner in which the army feeds these young men who spend the month as citizen soldiers. Often the parents of the students drop in for dinner or supper and have the opportunity of finding out for themselves just how well the boys are fed and invariably it is a revelation.

Although the mess hall and its equipment was brand new last year, Captain Johnson discovered after a summer of experience that there was still opportunity for improvements. One of the most important changes made this summer was in the method of baking bread, a number of Pullman make cans being purchased for the making of three-pound sandwich loaves. The mess officer had noted an unusual saving in bread as the result of using these pans, a saving which in fact may result in virtually getting back the price of the pans during this month alone. Whereas in the past there was considerable waste of bread, now this has appreciably lessened. In addition to the financial benefits, it is also a fact that the new bread loaf is even more appetizing than the one formerly baked.

Four new large sinks have been installed and two new dish-washing machines, which spray every part of the dish and can wash 5,000 of them in an hour. The warming tables have been remodeled, and when hot dishes are served to the students the food reaches them hot and not merely warm or cool. The students take turns at kitchen police and under the supervision of the regular personnel a smooth and fast working organization functions to serve the mess promptly and efficiently. The regular army men are a specially selected group carefully trained by the mess officer and ready to meet any problem which might arise. They put in long hours but receive additional compensation. Benefiting by the lessons learned last year, the mess organization is better organized and is producing better results this summer. However, new problems have arisen, and Captain Johnson is already giving thought to improvements which will be made for next year.

Some idea of the amount of food which is required to feed the student regiment can be obtained from the following figures, which are for one meal only: 600 pounds of bread, 150 gallons of lemonade, 75 gallons of ice cream, 300 pounds of jam, 1,900 cuts of cake, 1,200 pints of milk, $280 worth of lamb, 5,000 rolls, 800 pounds of chicken, 800 pounds of sirloin or tenderloin steak. A typical Sunday dinner menu consists of noodle soup, celery and olives, sirloin steak, mashed potatoes, cream peas, sliced tomatoes, coconut layer cake and vanilla ice cream. It is a meal which any youth with an appetite whetted by days in the open air can enjoy, which is made possible by the able organization which works under Captain Johnson and the splendid mess hall with its up-to-date equipment.
